Frequently Asked Questions

1. How do I get started?

Participants must volunteer to take part in a study. Medpace Clinical Pharmacology determines your eligibility for current or future studies based on your medical history and the answers you provide to our study participant questionnaire. Your answers are kept completely private and are not shared with anyone else.

After you volunteer and you are deemed eligible for a specific study, the next step is to schedule a screening appointment with a doctor or nurse practitioner. You will go through the informed consent process, receive a complete medical examination, and, depending upon the study, undergo blood/urine testing and other routine procedures to confirm you are in good health before you enroll.

If you do not qualify for a specific study right away, we will keep your name in our confidential database, and contact you when we have a study that is a good match for you. Every study is different.

To volunteer, call (513) 366-3222 or (866) 872-2349.

2. Will I be hurt by Phase I medical research?

Because the risks involved in each study are different, it is important that you carefully read the risk section of the consent form. Ask the staff questions you may have about your safety in the study in which you are interested. No guarantees or promises can be made about the safety of any drug being tested.

3. Why must I stay overnight?

Staying overnight at Medpace provides the most controlled environment for a Phase I or Phase IIa study. This includes the ability to standardize meals, activities, medication dosing, taking blood/urine samples, special testing, and monitoring for adverse events. The duration of your stay is designed for your safety. Most of the time, you will stay only a few days. However, there may be some studies that last longer. In order to make your stay as comfortable as possible, our clinic features:

- Recreation rooms outfitted with widescreen televisions, board games, and other activities
- Personal TVs, cable channels, access to Netflix®
- Desktop computers
- Wireless technology for personal phones, pads and laptops.
- Video games (Xbox 360®)
- A well-lit, secure outdoor courtyard (weather permitting)
- Catered meals

4. Are visitors allowed for stays requiring more than a couple days?

Unfortunately, we do not have a visiting area, so during your stay your contact with friends and family is limited to e-mail/text, phone or internet applications like Skype®.

5. Am I allowed to quit at any time?

Yes. As you will learn during the informed consent process, volunteers are allowed to withdraw their consent for study participation at any time. You may also ask to have your name removed from our volunteer database and we will stop contacting you for any future potential study participation.

6. How can my family contact me in case of an emergency?

Emergency phone numbers are provided when the study begins, however, regular incoming calls may be limited if procedures and/or testing are in progress.
